CHURCH IS FILLED BY TOWNSPEOPLE AT UNION RITES

Rev. Nevius Recites Gratitude For Our
American Heritage

The sanctuary of the Methodist church was filled Wednesday night with townspeople representing various church denominations, there for the community Thanksgiving service. Rev. Joe Ryan Nevius, pastor of the West Liberty Christian church delivered the Thanksgiving message.

The call to worship was given by Rev. G. E. McAllister, pastor of the First Church of God.

Donnie Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Major Gardner, sang a Song of Thanksgiving.

Rev. Robt. L. Meyer, pastor of the Methodist church read President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving Proclamation. This was followed by responsive reading of scripture led by James Elam.

The Prayer of Thanksgiving was offered by Stanley Blair and the offertory prayer was given by Rev. Meyer. It was announced the offering would go to Dora Lee Children's Home at Womble.

Miss Carolyn Gabbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gabbard, sang a solo, "Prayer of Thanksgiving," accompanied by Mrs. Rosaline Emrick at the organ.

Rev. Nevius said that we in America should feel honored that God has made us a free people and that we must dig deep to preserve our heritage of liberty. He chose as his subject, "Gratitude For Our American Heritage."

The first heritage for which we should be thankful is thankfulness. He said, pointing out that we live in a land of plenty but we should follow Christ's example of thrift. "We must be grateful for our stores by not being wasteful."

We should be grateful for our tradition of Freedom, said Rev. Nevius, and not use our freedom maliciously. He said that Paul Revere still rides in the hearts of Americans and the Freedom Train, carrying the documents of freedom, still travels. In speaking of gratitude for tradition of Religion, he told the assembly that "every time man looks to God heaven in his heart is keeping alive religion." Rev. Nevius cited a quotation from William Penn who said: "Unless we are sovereign in his heart he is kept-erned by tyrants."

He concluded his remarks by emphasizing the need of gratitude for our heritages and the need to strive constantly to keep them alive.

Mrs. Emrick, organist at the Methodist church, played the prelude and postlude and also for the congregational hymns. Major Gardner was song leader.

Rev. McAllister spoke the benediction.

The church sanctuary was decorated with baskets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums and yellow gladiolus. A harvest arrangement was placed on a table to one side of the pulpit.

Members of the West Liberty Boy Scout troop, in uniform, were ushers during the service.

MORGAN BEATEN IN TOURNAMENT

The Morgan Blue Devils opened the curtain on their 54-55 basketball season Saturday at Morehead in tournament play but succumbed to a fast moving Breckenridge quint by a 62-50 count.

The tournament, however, has never thrown much light on the Devils season play and this is regarded very lightly.

The Morgan team also lost its second start in the meet Monday day night, this one to Shapsburg who had earlier been beaten by Morehead 111. The margin was 8 points, 52-44. Breck went on to win the tourney, swamping Morehead 111 in the finals Monday night.

The tourney usually is counted as a preseason scrimmage for the Devils as the team had only been practicing a week before the affair. All ten of the boys who dressed for the Devils in the tourney saw action.

The Blue team begins playing for keeps Friday, Dec. 2, when they entertain Hazel Green Academy at the Morgan gym in their first home contest.

COURIER LATE THIS WEEK

The Courier appears a day late this week due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

TWO MEN TAKEN AT ZAG 5 HOURS AFTER ROBBERY

2 Bank Employees
Locked In Vault
Freed In 1 Hour

Two men armed with snub-nosed revolvers and using handkerchief masks robbed the Peoples Bank in Sandy Hook Friday afternoon and made their escape with $23,928 in cash.

Assistant Cashier R. W. Thompson and his wife, a clerk at the bank, were alone when the bandits entered at 1:50 p. m., and were locked in the vault.

The holdup was not discovered for about an hour, when the bank janitor heard Thompson yelling and pounding with a hammer on the inside of the vault.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were released about 3 p. m. when a townsman worked the vault lock while Thompson shouted out the combination.

And five hours later officers led by Morgan County Sheriff Aaron Lykins, arrested the two suspects at Zag in Morgan county.

The suspects, Ernest Carter, 23, and Orbra Jack Metcalf, 20, of Germantown, Ohio, were placed in jail at Louisa. They were charged with armed robbery in a warrant issued by Elliott County Judge David L. Davis Saturday night.

A third man, George Wilbur Lewis, 23, of Zag, was brought to the jail in West Liberty in connection with the case. Lewis is a cousin of Carter, and Carter and Metcalf were found at the Lewis home near Zag by arresting officers.

None of the bank's stolen money, however, has been found, officers say.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson said the two men walked into the bank casually about 10 or 15 minutes before closing time. They walked toward the back and approached a door leading into the bank cage. Thompson said when he looked up, the two men had put on handkerchief masks and one exclaimed, "This is a hold-up." Both had snub-nosed revolvers.

One of the bandits, Thompson said, demanded "Where's the cash?" Thompson pointed to a cash drawer at the teller's window. They got a sack and scooped up the money, about $2,105, and then demanded "Take us to the vault." Meanwhile, the mask on the taller bandit slipped off and he did not take time to replace it.

Flourishing the revolvers, the bandits forced Mr. and Mrs. Thompson into the vault, and followed them. While one covered the Thompsons with a revolver, the other picked up the bills and stuffed them in the sack.

As they left, one bandit said threateningly, "Don't make any noise for five minutes," then closed the vault door, leaving the Thompsons locked inside.

The vault is about 6x10 feet. Thompson said there were a hammer and chisel inside and that he used them in an effort to chisel a hole to the outside, meanwhile shouting occasionally to attract help.

After the Thompsons had been in the vault nearly an hour, Alvin Adkins, the janitor, heard them shouting and hammering inside the vault. He summoned townspeople.

One group of rescuers commenced drilling a hole through the side of the vault while others tried to work the combination of the lock.

Those working with a sledge hammer and chisel had made a small opening into the vault by the time School Supt. Curt Davis was able to work the vault lock from the combination shouted to him by Thompson. Two others had failed to work the lock, but the small opening made by the workers had already commenced supplying fresh air inside.

Meanwhile, the Sheriff, A. D. "June" Lewis was busy spreading the alarm to nearby police. Curt Ferguson, using a short-wave radio on an REA truck, dispatched the news to REA headquarters in Grayson. Mrs. Fay Greenhill at the Grayson REA office notified state police at Ashland who in turn called Morehead state police headquarters and the F.B.I.

Morehead state police radioed all state troopers in nearby counties at about 3:15 to set up road blocks around Elliott county.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Lewis had learned from Henry Adkins, an employee in Ernest Adkins' garage near the bank, that two men had left in a black Mercury car about 2 o'clock going toward West Liberty on Ky. 7. He said (Continued on page four)

MAYTOWN—

ROOSTER DRESSES
9 LBS AT 9 MONTHS

MAYTOWN, Ky., Nov. 22—(By Mabel Williams)—Aunt Sarah Ingram recently dressed a Hampshire Red cockerel which weighed nine pounds at the age of nine months. It was raised by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Williams who have a prize flock of Hampshire Red hens, 500 in number. They market their eggs at the Mt. Sterling hatchery. Mr. and Mrs. Williams also sell milk. They have a nice herd of milk cows and are prosperous farmers of whom we are proud.

Uncle Jim Ingram, 85 years of age and who is very feeble, had the misfortune to fall in his room recently and injure his back from which he has been suffering.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Rudd Saturday for their daughter Josie who recently got married to a Mr. Conter of Tolver. She received many nice and useful gifts.

Omer Swango of Hindsboro, Ill., visited his cousins, Jim and Dorsey Ingram here, over the week end.

Visitors at the home of Uncle Jim and Aunt Sarah Ingram Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bedford and daughters Louise and Barbara of Jeffersonville, Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Pelfrey and children and Mrs. Mayo Ingram of Campton, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Debusk. The following day Mrs. Charlie Murphy and Mrs. Molly Ingram of Campton visited them for the afternoon.

The Garrard County Homemakers Association contributed 71 books from the suitcase library to the new county bookmobile.

Hail damage increased the difficulties of stripping and grading some tobacco crops in Boyle county.

KELLACEY

(By Carol Carpenter)

Nov. 22—The writer is very happy to report to her many friends that she is in fine spirits and is very much improved. She returned to Lexington Nov. 9 for her checkup. Dr. J. F. VanMeter found her so much improved that he permitted her to return home the same day. However, Dr. McDowell did remove a small tumor off my right chest wall and took six stitches. I have my report, and it was only benign and not malignant. I am to see Dr. VanMeter the first Tuesday in March for x-ray treatments. Please continue to pray for me as we know God has power to remove cancer when all doctors fail.

Tom Caskey of Spirit Lake, Iowa, spent from Wednesday until Saturday with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mays and was a Friday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Mays.

The writer and community express their sympathy to Miss Bemis, sixth grade teacher at Ezel school, who has cancer and resigned her teaching. Her sister came for her. Together they left Thursday. She will make her home with her sister who will tenderly care for her. Miss Bemis has taught thirty some years, and about twenty at Ezel. She was a faithful and loyal teacher and will be missed by both the school and community.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mann, Mitchell and Juanita Cox have been helping Floyd Mays strip tobacco.

The writer wishes to express her appreciation to all who remembered her birthday Nov. 13 with their cards, gifts and money. May God bless each one.

The Sunday school at Toms Branch under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. John Heykoop of Ezel, is planning a Christmas program Dec. 26. Everyone is invited to take part and if interested see one of the leaders at an early date.

the two men came from the alley behind the garage and crossed the street to the Mercury parked in front of County Attorney V. H.
Redwine's home.

This information was relayed over the state police radio a few minutes after the first alarm was broadcast to troopers.

Morgan Officers Get Clue

Morgan county officers and a state trooper, who manned a road block at Pomp, three miles from West Liberty on Ky. 7, hit upon the clue that led to the apprehension of the bandits.

State Trooper Charles Hackley of West Liberty heard the first state police alarm while guiding traffic at the West Liberty high school. He and Morgan County Sheriff Aaron Lykins, Deputy Darrel Blevins and West Liberty
Chief of Police Jeff Williams rushed to Pomp, and set up a road block.

Shortly after setting up the road block at Pomp, the Morgan officers and State Trooper Hackley heard the state police radio describe the bandits' car as a 1950 black Mercury. This gave them the clue which they later used to arrest the suspects at Zag, a rural section 13 miles northwest of West Liberty.

When the state police radio mentioned the black Mercury, the three Morgan officers immediately suspected the trio they later were to arrest.

The Morgan officers had arrested Lewis on Tuesday for the theft of some equipment at a sawmill in the Zag section, and they noted at that time the Mercury car he and his companions were using.

Immediately after the state police radio described the getaway car as a black Mercury with Ohio license, the Morgan officers felt they had a clue. They even began dissuading descriptions of the men who had been seen in the car in recent days. Then in a moment, the radio gave a description of the two bandits. The descriptions fit.

In the meantime, State Trooper Shannon Cobern and Policeman Callis Coyle of Morehead and Rowan Conservation Officer Marlin Crawford had joined the officers, coming from Morehead via Wagoners Corner. Blaze and Wrigley.

Leaving Williams on guard at West Liberty, the Morgan officers and State Trooper Hackley and the trio from Rowan who had joined them, went to Lewis' home at Zag and took Metcalf and Carter into custody. They found the black Mercury parked on a hill near the Lewis home. None of the trio offered resistance and no firearms or bills were found. Lewis was playing a banjo when the officers entered his home. The arrests were made about 8:30, and the officers took

Metcalf and Carter to Sandy Hook.

Thompson identified Carter as the tall bandit whose mask had slipped off, but was not positive about the other. However, Henry Adkins who had seen the bandits leaving, and several other Sandy Hook townspeople identified Metcalf.

The couple denied the robbery, but F.B.I. agents, who had arrived in the meantime, quizzed them four hours. Then Sheriff Lykins and other officers came back to pick up Lewis. They found him on the main street of West Liberty.

Then, after midnight, Metcalf and Carter were taken to jail at Louisville, and Lewis was brought to jail at West Liberty.

Next morning Sheriff Lykins, state police, F. B. I. agents and others went to the Lewis farm and made a search for the stolen money. They failed to find the loot, but found 68 one-half gallon jars of moonshine liquor in the Lewis barn covered with old lumber and tobacco. They took this to West Liberty and poured most of it out.

Then F.B.I. agents went to Louisville Saturday afternoon to question Metcalf and Carter further.
And late Saturday evening State Trooper Hackley, after a telephone conversation with the federal officers, obtained a warrant from County Judge David L. Davis charging the couple with armed robbery. Meanwhile, Lewis was held for further questioning and for possession of the moonshine found in his barn.

Lewis was released Tuesday morning after being held the constitutional limit of 72 hours and no charge has been placed against him in connection with the bank robbery. However, he was placed under $300 to appear in circuit court on the liquor possession charge.

Metcalf and Carter, it later developed, had been seen in Sandy Hook the day and night before the robbery. They had visited a pool room, one of the restaurants and a grocery store. Sheriff Lewis was told by various businessmen and townspeople. Also, they had been seen in town the night before, some people said.

One woman who saw them walking down the street, just before the robbery wearing gloves and is said to have remarked, "There goes two safecrackers."

Morgan officers said that Metcalf and Carter, who live in Ohio, had been in the Zag section at various times during the summer. Metcalf, the officers said, was reported to have been a deserter from military duty.

Due to the time that elapsed before the robbery was discovered, the bandits had ample time to get to the Lewis home before road blocks were set up.
A short delay in giving an alarm to nearby counties resulted because telephones in Elliott county are being converted to dial phones and due to the changeover there was only one long-distance line set up.

A check-up showed the bandits got $23,928. They failed to get about $3,500 in a second drawer and about $1,700 in new bills in the vault.

The bank opened for business as usual next morning. The deposits were covered by insurance.
The bank on July 1 had total deposits of $866,406.89. D. B.
Caudill, president of the bank, lives in Morehead. Mrs. Jane E.
Caudill is cashier. Neither was in the bank at the time of the robbery.

Hunting News

The fishing editor assumes no liability for the unlawful acts of this column. He only reports.

Walter Thomas has hunted five days and killed three rabbits.

Pete Rose has changed his mind and will go hunting.

Walter Thomas has hunted 3 days and killed 5 rabbits.

Andy Walter does not go hunting. Too much walking.

2 rabbits and 1 bird, reported by Mrs. Gullett. This is perhaps accurate.

Dr. Ralph Gullett bought a case of shells.

Harry Clyde Day killed five rabbits.

Reports indicate more rabbits, fewer birds and same old hunters.

Tennysen Black said that Drex Vest had 11 birds the other day and saw the game warden coming and gave one to his dog. We will not publish this as it might in-criminate Drexel.

Paul Romans and John F. Lit-tural went rabbit hunting and saw 16 and killed 9.

Reynold Brown and Tennysen Black went hunting and saw the brush shake in 15 places.

The editor went fishing the other day and saw 23 wooley worms.

Lonnie Patrick and Richmond
Davis did not kill any but think they saw two rabbits. Their dog is reported to have made a point.

Reynold said Tennysen has a dog that will bring a bird and put it in his pocket. He said that Tennysen killed six one or the other rabbits or birds.

Earl Kinner, Jr. killed 3 squirrels Saturday. This is the largest number he has ever killed at one time.

Robert Allen, Chalmers Allen, Carl Elam and 2 other men who did not want their names used went to Montgomery county Saturday rabbit hunting. Had a little mixup over the number killed.
Chalmers says they all killed 16 but when it came to dividing there should have been 21.

Dr. Alec Spencer and Paul Williams went bird hunting Saturday. Doc says they killed 9. He arrived home at dark and did not have any birds. Claims he gave them to Paul.

Dorrie Franklin killed 2 rabbits. Said he could have killed more but could not find them.

David Adams, Morgan county conservation officer, said that a road block was set up at Olive Hill Saturday and licenses check-ed of 1600 hunters and 3600 rabbits were found in the 1600 hunters checked only 4 hunted illegally.

Ormond Lewis killed 9 birds Saturday.

Dr. Ralph Gullett, Rev. Joe Blevins, Elmer Mays and Elmer's brother hunted Monday. All got 15 birds. They were divided equially between Dr. Gullett and the other three, Doctor getting 7. One bird was in question as all four shot nine times before killing it.

(Slipped in by the Printer's Devil. Our Hunting and Fishing editor is the only person we know who is making fishing and hunting pay. Bernard has a farm below town that he rented out for corn. He has built a crib and a hogan on it and is fattening hogs on the corn. He arises every morning at 5, goes down to feed his hogs and then goes to the river to raise his fishing poles.
He tells us—but without the evidence he requires of other—that season does in fact to get two or three fish, and one morning this week he reports he got a 14-inch bass. His fishing is providing enough meat until his hogs get fat. Then he intends to live on fresh pork awhile. But he has never said he plans to quit fishing when he kills hogs.)

Jesse Tyler, H. D. Potter and Marcum Bach went hunting last Saturday. All together killed 15 rabbits. A checkup indicated that Jesse killed 4, Marcum 4 & Potter 2 and a squirrel. Efforts were made by Bach and Tyler to get away from Potter during the hunting. It is supposed they did this to avoid Potter getting most of the game.

Thursday Robert Allen killed 1 rabbit and Jesse Tyler 5.

ACP PRACTICES ARE OUTLINED

(Southern Agriculturist)

The new ACP program released provide for the Government to pay half the cost of conservation practices on your farm in 1955. The Federal cost-share plan is to get neglected practices carried out according to recommendations of ASC committees, the Extension Service and Forest Service, SCS, and Soil Conservation Districts.

State and county committees will give priority to improvement practices on land taken out of allotment crops—to encourage protective cover for land going out of production. Payment will be made only upon application to your county committee—your total payment cannot exceed the amount of $1,500. The government share on any practice can be only half the average cost, unless the practice is new in a county and sorely needed for maximum benefits.

Costs will be shared only on practices which have not become a regular part of operations in your county, and on those giving lasting protection. Some certain to be accepted in different areas are: Planting initial or permanent vegetation cover; winter cover crops; reforestation; pond building; furrowing or chiseling non-crop pasture; building diversion terraces, ditches and dikes.

If you do not have cash for your share, and have been denied credit by local agencies, you can apply to the Farmers Home Administration for insured loans to carry out certain practices.

GREETINGS from Allan M. Trout

THE LUCK of the Irish is with you today, my friends. For this day only can you read in this fine newspaper my verbal meanderings concerning barnyard science. Ordinarily, the astounding manifestations of hindsight which I daily pour into GREETINGS are published only in that remarkable newspaper, The Courier-Journal, of Louisville, Kentucky.

THESE MANIFESTATIONS are taken directly from strange markings on my incomparable collection of terrapin backs. To my knowledge I am the only columnist in the English-speaking world who can decipher the monumental messages hidden in these crawling cryptograms. That is why I have never claimed that GREETINGS is anything but had some days and worse on others.

YOU CAN FIND Greetings in the upper left hand corner of The Courier-Journal comic page. It runs under what we in the newspaper business call a "stock head." This shows we were not behind the doors when the sense was passed out. In no other place can you find learned discussions of such stock problems as why a red cow eats green grass, then gives white milk and yellow butter.

MY SUCCESSFUL practice of barnyard therapeutics is the envy of other newspapers. Are you threatened with dread rheumatism? Write me, and I will send you a bukeye to ward it off. Do the vicissitudes of life seem to close in around you? Upon application, I will send you a packet of rabbit tobacco, whose pungent but everlasting aroma will restore you. No other newspaper, to my knowledge, is staffed and equipped to render such free and postpaid service.

ALLAN TROUT

IT IS TRUE that some reporters develop into columnists from force of circumstances or lack of character. But do not let that scare you away from my column. It is not a one-horse project. While I stand in the sagging middle and fight knot-headed critics, one end is propped up by my fearless poets and the other end by my intrepid investigators.

MAN AND BOY, I have been in the newspaper business for 36 years. Experience has taught me, if anything, that a well-balanced paper needs one feature which readers can skip and not be hurt. That is a fundamental reason why The Courier-Journal runs my column. You can miss it one day, or several days hand-running, and not be any worse off. I am by it, therefore, a lot like the bass drummer was by his music. "You don't make very good music," a critic said to the drummer. "No," the drummer replied, "but I drown out a lot of bad."

THANK YOU, friends, and remember—you can read my column and still wonder which side is right.

YOCUM

(By Cassie Lewis)
Nov. 22—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lewis celebrated their 26th wedding anniversary Sunday, Nov. 21. Not with an open house or a large gathering, but rather peacefully, quietly and happily in their own home. They enjoyed a good dinner together with their only daughter Janet Carol, who asked grace at the table then sang, "Happy Anniversary, Dear Parents." The couple had been invited out to dinner by relatives but as their anniversary comes so near Thanksgiving they preferred their usual way of celebrating the occasion at home, counting their many blessings and giving thanks to God. Their favorite Bible reading for the day was Psalms 100.

Dennie Smith of Harlan county made a business trip to Yocum Saturday and was dinner guest of McKinley Fields and family.

Gladi Oakley who had been visiting here with Jim Oakley and family left one day last week accompanied by Sam Adams.

Recent visitors of Math Lewis and family were James Sexton and family of Blaine and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fairchild, Jr. of Zag.

Upper Pleasant Run school now has an extra blessing to add to their Thanksgiving list: Electricity.

Child Labor Law Is Being Violated

It has come to our attention that certain farmers have been hiring children in school age to work. This is in violation to child labor laws.

Children under 14 are not to be employed in any occupation and between the ages of 14-16 only after school hours and during vacation time.

Compliance with these laws is urged by the Attendance Department of Morgan county schools.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Index Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Corbet Elam on Nov. 11. Mrs. Homer Collins read the First Psalm followed by Mrs. Ernest Fairchild in prayer.

Mrs. Homer Collins, a project leader, discussed the lesson on desserts. She said that a dessert should be a part of every meal. Molasses should be substituted for sugar when possible. It was pointed out. To keep molasses fresh, it was suggested that be processed in pint jars ten minutes.

After the lesson was given, the group watched Mrs. Collins and Noah Elam make a steamed dried fruit pudding and floating island salad. These, together with meat loaf, potato chips, crackers, coffee and cake were served to the following: Mrs. Noah Elam, Mrs. Stanley Bishop, Mrs. Mary Meadows, Mrs. Herbert Pannin, Mrs. Robert Halsey, Mrs. Ernest Fairchild, Mrs. Homer Collins, Mrs. Bishop Benton, Mrs. Burton Fugate, Mrs. Corbet Elam and daughter and Miss Stella Elam.

The Christmas party will be held at the home of Mrs. Burton Fugate Dec. 16 and the entire family is invited.
